Captain John B. Davis, of the Memphis and Arkansas City Planters pucket line, le wes for St. Louis by rail this morning to supervise in person the finishing touches to his packet, the Rob Roy. The cuptain mornas us that he hopes to start the Rob Roy out from this port on her first trip to Arkansas City next Monday week. Captain Davis's well-known character for Industry and determination and his popularity among Memphis merchants, and especially with the planting community, are a good foundation for the enterprise, which we hope soon to see raised to the proportions of a tri-weekly line.

"J. M. and a hundred other Mississippi and Missouri tiver pilota." have something to say in the St. Louis rapers about "extortionate rates for pilots license," as follows: "Previous to the war pilots' license on western rivers cost the pilots five dellars for original, and one dollar per pear for a 'renewal." Fhese were the charges established by congress about 1852. During the war a war tax was added, making the original tan dollars, and a renewal the same sum, ten dollars. These rates still prevall. We, the pilots, protest against a longer continuance of this outregeous and unjust charge. We are less able to pay ten dollars now than we were to pay fifty dollars previous ty the war."
